Hi Lewis,

Please attribute the below to me:

The Mayor's Office continues to work hard to build stronger relationships with the Community Police Commission. That has included extensive engagement with the CPC and its Commissioners about areas where there could be strong collaboration. Over the summer, the City, including the Mayor's Office, had many meetings and conversations with the CPC and its commissioners on the Judge's order.

As we expected, we reached a mutual agreement that resolved any initial misunderstanding about our past communications and collaboration.

We have deep respect for the CPC's critical role in the accountability regime and their strong independence. The Mayor looks forward to our continued engagement on a wide range of policing issues.

Also, this was in the City Attorney's letter (see below) but I wanted to confirm that the Mayor's Office received no privileged information.

"With respect to your concern that the Mayor's Office solicited or received privileged information discussed in Executive Session on August 7, 2019 from CPC Commissioners, based upon my review of all the provided correspondence between the Mayor's Office and the CPC, I can identify no such evidence that this occurred."

Thanks,
Mark
